

Title: Interacting particles in a convex body

Abstract

We will see how local rules and independent decision making results in attaining invariant states or phase transition. This class of problems lie in the intersection of interacting particle systems (voter models) and statistical physics.

By : Amitava Bhattacharya